COURSE DESCRIPTION

This comprehensive course explores the intersection of medical emergencies, patient care, and dental malpractice claims. Through a legal and clinical lens, it examines the causes, consequences, and prevention of malpractice claims related to informed consent, pharmacologic decisions, and management of medically compromised patients. Featuring real case studies and practical risk management strategies, the course equips dental professionals with the tools and knowledge necessary to identify potential pitfalls in clinical practice, to improve documentation and decision-making, and to ultimately protect both patient safety and professional integrity.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

At the conclusion of this presentation, participants will be able to:

- 1 Identify common medical emergencies and conditions in dental practice that contribute to malpractice claims, and understand how to respond effectively.
- 2 Understand the legal concepts and requirements related to dental malpractice and informed consent, particularly under Wisconsin law.
- 3 Evaluate pharmacologic considerations, including opioid prescribing practices and their risks, and implement safer alternatives when appropriate.
- 4 Apply risk management strategies in clinical decision-making, documentation, patient communication, and referrals to reduce liability and enhance patient safety.

SPEAKERS

Marc Leffler, DDS, Esq.

Dr. Marc Leffler is a board-certified oral and maxillofacial surgeon, and a dental anesthesiologist, having received his dental degree from Columbia University and completed residency training in Oral and Maxillofacial Surgery and Anesthesia at Bellevue Hospital Center/New York University. He practiced oral surgery in office and academic settings, and supervised the training of residents and dental students in outpatient general anesthesia, orthognathic surgery, dentoalveolar surgery and emergency management of medically compromised patients. Dr. Leffler received his law degree from New York Law School, where he was a member and editor of the Law Review. He practiced trial law in New York and Connecticut, representing dentists and dental specialists in malpractice litigation, dental board actions and peer review proceedings. Currently, he is the dental risk solutions lead for MedPro Group, and Head of its Dental Advisory Board.

Ellison Hitt, JD

Ellison defends claims against professional healthcare providers, including dentists, doctors, nurses, nursing homes, and other long-term care facilities in malpractice claims and in matters pending before professional licensing boards. She graduated from Miami University of Ohio, B.A. and Marquette Law School, JD. For the past few years, Ellison has represented all of Professional Insurance Program's insured dentists in Wisconsin malpractice cases.
